Chap. 14. Christianity found society on the verge of dissolution. Religion was impotent. Knowledge had disappeared. Roman laws owed part of their goodness to Christian ideas. Rome did not wisely use its power. Then Christianity appeared with a life-giving salvation. When Christianity and Paganism met Paganism subsided. Paganism never did anything for the good of man. Christianity's sole object was the improvement the reformation of man.

Chap. 15. The Church was a regenerative association, she changed the world. First slavery. It was predominant. Who abolished it among Christian nations. Guizot says the Church suppressed slavery. She was obliged to let it continue. It did all that was possible in favor of human liberty. Too sudden an emancipation would have upset the social system.

Chap. 16. Christianity's first movement was against the force of ideas. Slaves were regarded as different in soul and body from their masters. Christianity proclaimed holy fraternity and equality. Slaves exaggerated this principle. The Church taught them to be obedient to authority. While preaching ^{obedience to} authority she founded it on Divine Authority. The Church softened the treatment of slaves.

Tuesday 19th

Attending to my duties. Don't get down any too early but write a great deal and cover counts pretty thoroughly. My hat is very old. Its 2nd winter my pants ragged &c. my arguments few but my troubles light except for lowness of spirits and my wretched cough. Mrs. Williams expected home to morrow. Reflecting to write to children or to Miss Moorhead. Loaf around office until late for no reason under the sun. Fore a great deal of sleep which I need, snoring ahead.

Wednesday 20th

We have very poor weather. My cold &c. gets worse & worse seemingly instead of better. My shoes are commencing to go. George called for me at office. Being busy having still a little to write we missed Murray train & a little. Wretched night but we went eight or ten blocks to play billiards. I now have cold in head in addition to the cough.

Thursday 21st

Put in bill for $24 which as I don't state it to morrow was allowed. City Editor Meighan "off" sat. Perhaps he's sick or perhaps he's drunk. Tom Preston has for two or three nights invited me to supper. Believe came in from Newark. George loaned me $2. I have $15 but am saving it. Hope to have some also out of next week. I am not feeling well.

Friday 22nd

To the Courts. Doubtful about Essex. Drank much corn ~~rock~~ whiskey and rock candy for cough with no effect. ~~He~~ Rain rain rain in torrents and long lasting. Kept it off away for a while but at last I caught it. With Judge Murray & Court reporters to Woodbine "on 6th Ave. Sat down. Talked drank & I passed stupid time. Met George at Union Square theatre. Saw "Celebrated Case" a good play well acted especially by Copley. To Newark. To bed.

Saturday 23rd

Came in either with or before George. Rainy weather certainly foggy. Don't think I went to Court in morning. Did in afternoon though feeling d-d unwell. Not much to write - yes there was and I was to Court in the morning on the Restell case. Wrote big story. In office they wished to send me on a midnight accident. I could not see it. Arrived at home.

Sunday 24th

Through with Court's earlier today than usual. To Both of them. Essex was closed when I arrived there. To Bath on 5 o'clock. Then played billiards and loafed at Funnell's until after 9 1/2. Feeling poorly. To bed but Mary got my supper. When Papa in bed she came down and said w'd better speak &c. She claimed it would be foolish to continue as we are. Both to bed.
